There's no absolute answer to this question. Experts offer answers ranging from four to 10. At least six is a good number to shoot for, but ideally no more than 15 schools. You should divide these schools into three categories: reach, target, and safety. To do so, you'll need to research the average SAT/ACT and GPA of admitted students. Then, based on your numbers, you'll determine whether the school is a reach (unlikely to be accepted), target (good chance of acceptance), or safety ...
