The only good part of a Hinsen cab is the RollGuard. The Stolper also had a canopy that was the same as the original canopy from JD just needs fan hole filled in. They are still a bit noisy but they do look nice and may save your life. We had a 6030 with a Hinsen that we traded for a 4630 strictly on cab alone as the performance was better on the 6030 just too noisy. When NewGen said it takes more than a year that tells you its much more than a bolt on swap. His are as nice as you will find and ...

Deere 4020 Equipped With Sound Gard Cab. "I mounted the Sound Gard cab off a 1988 Deere 2955 tractor onto my 1971 Deere 4020 tractor. It helped make it one of the best looking 4020's around," says John Atkinson, Castleton, Ont. Atkinson bought the 2955 fitted with the cab four years ago from an insurance company.

JD changed from the Stolper cab to Hinsin in 1971. They both were basically an enclosed rollguard with no sound deadening or interior. They looked nice and seemed great at the time but the rollguard acted like a tuning fork and is the first thing we remove most every time I sell one. They make some kits that help but not a great amount. If you need a cab the best and maybe cheapest is to go to a newer unit.
